Log College Celebration

PHILADELPHIA, September 5.—The old log college celebration, one of the great pieces of the presbytery of Philadelphia north, began today on the old Tennent farm near Hartsville, Bucks county, Pa., where the college was originally located. The farm is 20 miles from Philadelphia. The exercises of the day are really commemorative of the founding of the Presbyterian church in the United States. The log college was established in 1726 by William Tennent, and flourished until 1742, when Princeton college was founded. It may be said the Princeton institution sprang up from the primitive college established by Tennent.

President Harrison and Postmaster General Wanamaker were present, the president having driven from Wanamaker's country seat this morning, a distance of 18 miles. Farm houses along the route were decorated and there was a continual ovation. Tents had been erected on the Tennent farm and in the dense crowd from surrounding country and Philadelphia, including prominent Presbyterian divines from all over the country, were present. The long programme, which had been arranged, divided into two parts, opened with religious service.

At 11:50 the president and Wanamaker entered the large tent and were given a most enthusiastic welcome. They took seats on a raised platform. As soon as the party were seated the first paper of the day was read by Rev. D. K. Turner, of Hartsville, descriptive of the founding of the log college and the useful career of its founder. He was followed by Rev. R. M. Patterson of Philadelphia, editor of the Presbyterian, who delivered an address on log college evangelists.

Rev. Dr. Murray, dean of Princeton college, delivered an address followed by Rev. Dr. Mellwaine, president of Hampton Sydney college, Virginia, on the influence of the log college in the south.

When President Harrison rose to speak twenty-five thousand persons present cheered him repeatedly. He said in part: "I thank you for your hospitable treatment of me and for today. I must say I have much pleasure in being here, for every impulse of honest pride which stirs our hearts is flattering. I am glad I stand here at the source of a great government. I have seen the Mississippi river pouring out its enormous flood to the gulf, and I have had the pleasure of standing at the source of the great Missouri, but what is the force and energy freighted by these rushing streams when compared with the movement inaugurated here? [Applause.] I am glad to be here to help celebrate one of those great impulses springing from a small beginning and yet how far reaching in its results and effects. I don't want unduly to exalt the Presbyterian church, and yet I think historians who have been untouched by partisanship testify that it has been magnificently in the van. Let us take no backward steps. Let us continue to merit the favor of God and do his work until the world shall cease to move. Steadfastness is our characteristic. Our enemies have called it obstinacy, and there are occasions when even that characteristic has its services. Let us, my friends, continue to be steadfast to faith in the future and strengthened on this sacred spot."

At the close of the president's address there was a scene of wild excitement for five minutes, men and women cheering and waving handkerchiefs. After singing the hymn "Never my God to Thee," the morning exercises closed at 1:30 p. m. The president and party were escorted to a tent where a bountiful lunch was spread. At the conclusion of the lunch the president and party started [illegible]

WALLA WALLA, September 5.—Nominations were completed as follows: Lieutenant governor, Charles E. Laughton; secretary of state, Allen Weir; auditor, Thomas M. Reed; treasurer, S. A. Linn; attorney general, W. S. Jones; superintendent of public instruction, R. V. Bryan; commissioner of public lands, W. T. Forest; supreme judges, W. O. Dunbar, T. J. Anderson, T. Hoyt, Elmore Scott and T. S. Stiles. The platform heartily commends President Harrison's foreign policy, recognizes the necessity of revision of the protective tariff, but insists that it must be made by its friends instead of its enemies; denounces the democracy for its second attempt to force American labor into competition with the pauper labor of Europe, recognizes the right of labor to organize for self protection, acknowledges the debt of gratitude to soldiers of the late war, favors liberal appropriations for rivers and coast defense and navy, and also favors legislation restoring the merchant marine, demands settlement of alien land questions and the forfeiture of unearned railroad grants and commends to the wisdom of the constitutional convention the submitting of separate articles on woman suffrage and prohibition.

Marshal Franks' Report.

WASHINGTON, September 5.—In his official report to the department of justice under date of August 21 Marshal Franks says that on his hence to instructions of the department he had constantly exercised the vigilance to the protection of Justice Field and Judge Sawyer from violence by D. S. Terry and wife. Of the assault in the dining room at Lathrop Marshal Franks says Terry struck Justice Field twice before Deputy Marshal Nagle interfered. He continues: "Terry was a man of very large physique and of great strength. His passions were apparently be-

[illegible] Employes' Revolt.

[illegible] Hayti, September 5.—The democratic state convention adopted a platform endorsing and upholding free trade, opposing compulsory education, sympathizing with labor organizations in problem, assistance to Hawaii, favoring minority representation, and arraigning Dakota for extravagance and mismanage ment in territorial affairs.

The following nominations were made: Governor, P. F. McGuire; lieutenant governor, A. W. Pratt; secretary of state, Otto P. Miller; auditor, J. E. Hatton; treasurer, A. D. Hill; attorney general, H. Fellows; superintendent of public instruction, G. H. McFarlane; commissioner of public lands, H. S. Yorkmor; supreme judges, [illegible] Kirk, C. H. Winston and [illegible]; congressmen, L. G. [illegible]. Booth. A dispatch from Port [illegible] McGuire will not accept the nomination for governor.

New York Prohibitionists.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., September 5.—The prohibition state convention [illegible] session this morning. The question of holding a state convention in 1890 was left to the discretion of the state committee. The following ticket was selected: Secretary of state, Jesse H. Griffin; comptroller, Mr. Bond, of Rensselaer; treasurer, J. W. Bruce; attorney general, G. A. Hart; state engineer and surveyor, A. J. Kenyon, judge of the court of appeals, W. J. Farrington.

The platform adopted declares the prohibition of the liquor traffic, state and national, should be the dominating and dividing political issue until such prohibition shall have become the recognized and settled policy of the government. License, high or low, is useless in principle and useless as a remedy. Local option has proven unsatisfactory. It recognizes the duty of the coming legislature to submit a prohibition amendment, but protests against such submission by any political party whose only purpose is [illegible] defeat. The platform further asserts that the [illegible] of suffrage [illegible] to be unconstitutional. The [illegible] years [illegible] for naturalization [illegible] opposition to trusts [illegible] approved and [illegible] rightly applied [illegible] that which the government can administer [illegible] Just and generous to honestly discharged soldiers and sailors of the public, the doorway the United States treasury ought not to be the [illegible] gratify the desires or satisfy the greed of claim agents or an employe pot of claims.

After a few words the officer walked around to Justice Irving's office and the two returned to the cottage. ROBERT HAY HAMILTON.

Besides the articles named in the letter several pieces of jewelry and photographs which were in the custody of Mrs. Rupp, also articles in the trunk of Mrs. Hamilton [illegible] Mr. Ewell's baggage will be handled Mr. Ewell, who he boarded the train from the afternoon. Orders of a most rigid character were issued upon the receipt of the afternoon regarding the interests of Mrs. Rupp. Justice Irving says [illegible] see or converse with her for the present. The bond which Hamilton gave [illegible] the amount of a [illegible] appearance when required is now forfeited and will be handed to the county.

In the Alley Behind Every Lot in Parrish's Addition

There is a 3-inch Water Pipe, connected at Chestnut street with a 10-inch main; the largest in the City's System. THE MAIN CITY DITCH, taking pure, clear water from the Fountain, runs just back of PARRISH'S ADDITION, and within a stone's throw of it.

YOU ARE SURE TO GET WATER

The Great Divide [illegible] has made its way very rapidly into popular favor. As most of our readers know, it is edited by Mr. Stanley Wood who has established a literary reputation higher than that of any other Colorado journalist. His paper comes every month with fresh, bright reading matter. It is not simply interesting, but much of it is very valuable. The Rev. J. W. H. Carroll, the dean of the College of Archæology and Æsthetics of the city of New York, writes,

"The Great Divide is the only popular work which has been admitted to the Library. The careful and judicious and other selected articles are presented in a manner which is interesting and profitable alike to the savant and to the more [illegible]."

Yesterday we received a circular showing its circulation. Mr. K. G. Cooper, the manager of the Denver Republican, says, on oath, that he printed and delivered in August twenty thousand, one hundred copies of the Great Divide. There is an affidavit from Postmaster Cochrane showing that the postage on the Great Divide for July was twenty-seven dollars and sixty-eight cents. It is a matter of congratulation that Mr. Wood has been so successful in this enterprise, and his large circle of friends here will rejoice in it.

English dispatches for the past few days have spoken of the combination between Parnell and Balfour. The only ground for this combination given is that Balfour will pass an Irish university bill. This is by no means a new measure, as Gladstone, some fifteen years ago, attempted the passage of a bill which while less comprehensive, was intended to accomplish the same result. But this is not sufficient reason for any political combination between Parnell and Balfour. The Irish university bill must be only an initial step, for it carries with it no enlargement of political rights and no relief to the tenantry. It is impossible that there should be any compromise which should not grant something in these two directions. While the Irish university bill, with the understanding that it should be under the Roman Catholic control, might do something toward conciliating the clergy of Ireland, it could not effect materially the feelings of the Irish people. They do not feel that they are keenly suffering for want of education, but they do feel that they keenly suffer by paying too much rent and by having their rights too much abridged. Very recently there was a forcible illustration of the weakness of the control which the church has over the people, when the church undertakes to interfere with the politics of the Irish people. Nor is it possible for Mr Parnell, on such grounds, to affiliate with Balfour further than opposing bill. The brutal treatment of O'Brien when in jail and the still more brutal attempts to assassinate the reputation of Parnell cannot be forgotten. There can be no alliance with Balfour which Balfour practically grants the relief that Ireland asks for.

Night Hour Work.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

Why should we in Colorado Springs be working ten hours instead of eight, as is in other towns?

There is to be a meeting of stonecutters and bricklayers to-night and it is to be hoped it will be well attended.

An Alabama Negro Killed by a Bear.

Yesterday three negroes—Neal Taylor, Jim Robinson and Joe Swaringen—went squirrel hunting in the swamps of the Warrior River, a few miles from Carthage, Ala. In a hollow stump they found two young bears, and attempted to capture them alive. While they were tying one of the cubs the mother suddenly appeared on the scene and attacked Taylor. His gun was knocked out of his hand and the bear seized him around the body. Taylor's companions were so badly frightened that they dropped their guns and fled from the spot. When they returned half an hour later they found Taylor dead and torn to pieces by the teeth and claws of the bear. The cubs were in a tree, but the old bear was lying on the ground writhing in agony. Taylor had gotten out his knife and stabbed the bear repeatedly before his strength gave out. The animal was killed by a shot from Robinson's rifle.—Birmingham Telegram.

THE MYSTERY OF THE SUN.

What is [illegible] to the [illegible] in 7 [illegible]

The number of astronomical people that are preparing to go to various points in the track of the total solar eclipse in December, and the completeness of the equipment they propose to take with them for observation, make the prospects for good results unusually hopeful. The comparatively infrequent opportunities for studying this species of solar phenomena, and the brief time that is available under the most favorable circumstances for observation, make each event of great importance to astronomical science, particularly as at no other time can so much evidence be obtained for determining the real character of the sun and its appendages.

Long as the science of astronomy has flourished and great as has been its advance, it is only within a few years that, by the aid of the spectroscope and photography, the nature of the sun and its surroundings has been established with anything like certainty, and even now the most widely different theories are held as to the character of the sun's actinity. It has long been known that around the black disk of the moon in total solar eclipses a halo of light is seen, bright next to the sun, but fading away more or less gradually into the blackness around it. This was supposed by the generality of astronomers as late as 1870 to be due either to the effects produced by our own atmosphere or by the moon's atmosphere. It was not till later that astronomers were convinced that this halo or corona was a part of the sun itself, and that from it must be derived the most important clews for settling the mysteries of the sun's heat and light.

From the observations of eclipses made recently it is now well [illegible] that the sun as ordinarily visible to us, bounded by the photosphere, is only a part of the sun. Just outside the photosphere is a comparatively thin layer of gas, mainly hydrogen, called the chromosphere; around this is the corona, the [illegible] of miles thick, and around the corona, especially along the equator, there is a considerable extension of matter about which little is known. The general theory which has been built up from a knowledge of the facts and from the observations of solar phenomena as sun spots and prominences is that the chemical elements are being continually thrown about in the [illegible] of the sun and never getting out of it. The outer layers of the sun [illegible] are cooled as much [illegible] than the inner. Cool or comparatively cool [illegible] of matter are produced by [illegible] in the upper regions from the hot ascending vapors of the lower [illegible]. These masses of matter, having gained weight, come under the influence of gravitation over twenty-five times as great as ours, and fall with an incredible velocity toward the center. It is supposed that [illegible] of cooled matter upon the sun produce what are known as sun spots.

We know how [illegible] in our own cold atmosphere are heated to incandescence by friction. Their kinetic energy is transformed into heat. It is not difficult to imagine, therefore, that those masses of matter darting down from a great height above the photosphere of the sun, create great disturbances near the photosphere, such as sun spots indicate, and that [illegible] falling into the inner and greatly heated atmosphere should be broken up in the heat generated by their own kinetic energy into hot vapors, producing such explosions that the down rush is transformed into an up rush, which would carry the chemical elements back to the cooler air, where they would gradually condense again and repeat the operation of fall into the chromosphere. The effect of such an up rush is supposed to be indicated by the prominences observed. The matter is [illegible] to be thrown up like the water of a fountain and like it there is a back, only to be [illegible] up again but on so great, so terrific a scale that the imagination is unable to form a picture of it.

If this is the correct theory of the sun's existence, it is impossible to conceive of any limit to it. The [illegible] which we can only heat into a glowing [illegible] are there reduced to a vapor, and by explosion thrown 100,000,000 miles or more away, only to cool and fall back again toward the center of attraction, there to be thrown off again. But effective as the [illegible] is in explaining solar phenomena, it is by no means generally held, and among those holding it there are great differences of opinion. The evidence is little better than circumstantial and it is only by the industrious work of astronomers, with improved appliances, that the mystery can approach solution. The study of the sun is to us the most important study in astronomy. It affects us directly. To better understand this center of life and heat is to better understand our own surroundings, and it is from the observations of those who set out to view the occasional total eclipse of the sun that light must come.—Providence Journal.

About one month ago a young man named Joe Harper was struck on the back of the head with a pair of brass knuckles by a footpad, knocking him senseless, and for more than a month he lay unconscious. A few days ago he suddenly recovered his senses, but when he did he was able to converse intelligently only in the German language. He was born of American parents, who spoke it, it seem, and that was the language he first learned. He gave that up, however, and learned English, using it at all times, entirely forgetting his German. Now he can remember nothing of English. DAILY LIFE IN JAMAICA.

QUEER CUSTOMS WHICH PREVAIL ON THE QUAINT OLD ISLAND

By [illegible] and Incidents in and About Kingston—The Memories in the Market Place—The Negro as He Appears Under a Tropical Sky

[illegible]

KINGSTON, Jamaica, [illegible] island of the West Indies [illegible] are [illegible] more dull. [illegible] Less than [illegible] New York. [illegible] hardly any [illegible] at least two thirds of the time of the voyage may not prove the weather. The beautiful harbor of quaint old Kingston is protected by a long and narrow strip of land, past which the [illegible] come slowly from the north, and around which point they enter and more slowly, [illegible] long in by old Port Royal, whose [illegible] set forth upon his [illegible] raid Morgan, the [illegible] Jamaica takes its name from an old Indian word, signifying "wood and water." And most appropriately so called. The [illegible] sweep seaward from the mountain [illegible] of the center are numbered [illegible]. There is hardly a month in the year when everything has not a fresh and [illegible] lively spring like look.

The bloom of the [illegible] is tropical, the fruits are marvelous. Pass through the Victoria market on a December day and you can hardly refrain from exclaiming aloud at the variety, quality, and [illegible] of everything. The [illegible] are a lively scene. The [illegible] and [illegible] kindly faced old uncles and aunties, are [illegible] as vendors. You may not desire to purchase [illegible] you may even have resolved firmly not to purchase; yet you do purchase [illegible] and in astonishing quantities. The old women [illegible] at you with an "O, my [illegible] pretty young [illegible]" or "My dear honey [illegible]" lays hold [illegible] your arm and [illegible] you into first a [illegible] set to put things in, and then [illegible] thing to put in it. They make in Jamaica very pretty little [illegible] too, [illegible] plaited, of a sort of [illegible]. These are sold at "the [illegible]" six [illegible] or larger [illegible] at four pence. They are very nice for [illegible] and straps are always take away [illegible].

The market is a wide pavilion built of brick and [illegible]. One end of it faces upon the sea, and here the fish are [illegible] at 10 o'clock each morning. One finds [illegible] all the [illegible] of the [illegible] zone [illegible] well as the products of the [illegible]. Here are [illegible] and cabbages and [illegible] than huge, [illegible] and the kind of [illegible] for little [illegible] granulated, with a hard [illegible] that is [illegible]. This hard shell [illegible] by the way, is nice to dare [illegible] over, the [illegible] say. But the regular market [illegible] is an open market [illegible], where [illegible] too poor to hire space in the pavilion are privileged to gather and [illegible]. Here also one [illegible] a great [illegible] of little donkeys; the [illegible] patiently waiting, having brought their [illegible] of produce to town, to [illegible]. Perhaps a proportion of a good [illegible] of a grim may [illegible] the donkey back.

The Kingston park is one of the finest [illegible] imaginable. Entering by the main gate one [illegible] to the fountain, a [illegible] which two huge trees provide an [illegible] and [illegible]. Everywhere are [illegible] and paths [illegible]. The [illegible] tree called the "Jerusalem thorn" provides a splendor of its own. This [illegible] along the road from Kingston up to Gordon Town [illegible] a cottage is [illegible] and [illegible] roofed with [illegible]. The road up to Gordon Town is a [illegible] and a delightful drive of nine [illegible]. Above Gordon Town one may take [illegible] horses and [illegible] up into the [illegible] as far as New Castle, [illegible] from after the white [illegible] of the rump high on the [illegible] Cedars are picturesque in the extreme.

But Kingston [illegible] the winter with sufficient [illegible] and [illegible] to fill a book. There is a midday [illegible] in the narrow streets. Some of the shops with their [illegible] green shutters make one think of a painted stage scene. The better dwelling [illegible] are mostly built with high and solid brick walls before [illegible] and on [illegible] by above the level of the ground. Originally the streets were of the level, but the little streams of water [illegible] consequently down [illegible] have [illegible] deep [illegible]. The finest church stands up with a stately [illegible] of its own—white above the dull yellow of brick of the city. Kingston is [illegible] of 70,000. On [illegible] Jamaica the [illegible] are [illegible]. The Blue mountains rise back of the town to 7,000 feet. The air [illegible]. Although the sun [illegible] hotly, [illegible]

[illegible] All day long the sea wind [illegible] landward like a tide coming in, all night long the [illegible] from the [illegible] down and out to sea like ebb tide. Never in the heat once [illegible].

The hotels are good and [illegible] as to [illegible]. One at [illegible] has the choice of a [illegible] garden sloping down to the [illegible]. Here, carefully cultivated, grow [illegible] that in a northern land would be [illegible]. Orchids and lilies, and [illegible]. Magnificent [illegible] of [illegible] and magnificent [illegible]. Here one may sit at a table sipping iced claret or lemonade and drinking in all the beauty [illegible] New York and [illegible] are [illegible] with the [illegible] of [illegible].

[illegible] are a [illegible]. Of [illegible] of their own [illegible] they are [illegible] more [illegible] highly [illegible], to [illegible]. At [illegible] they are happy, good natured, [illegible] and [illegible]. They have many [illegible] and their language is an [illegible] jabbering jargon. There [illegible] to be [illegible] a foreign tongue, but it is only their [illegible] English. They have [illegible] words of their own. An American has Buckra, a [illegible] child a pickiny. A ghost is a [illegible].

There is a beautiful little blue flower that [illegible] wild in the [illegible]. They call it the [illegible] for the ghost's whistle [illegible] the wind blowing over fields of its pale blossoms in its pea shaped [illegible] and [illegible] a trumpet, [illegible] sort of [illegible]. It is of the [illegible] family, larger than the [illegible] of our [illegible] country gardens. Another beautiful wild flower is the pink [illegible] clock, with heart of blood. Then there is the plant whose [illegible] leaves a shiny, hard [illegible] of [illegible] hue. These pods are called Judas trees. They are drying [illegible] with pretty effect.

Jamaica has a dozen seaports of importance. Montego Bay, on the northwest coast, is said to have a fine harbor. Port Antonio, on the northeast, is [illegible]. Between these and Aux the bay form the Rio Grande, one of the largest rivers in Jamaica is not expensive. Travel in Jamaica does not cost much. A shilling will do a good deal. PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 2.—A [illegible] structure will be the new government building in this city. Now, perhaps, for it is not yet finished, but already ageing, for it is fourteen years now since work on the structure was begun. The first work is now

The New Settlers.

A recent issue of The Farmington Register, of Oregon, contains a letter from Andrew Sallee, the head of the Cour d'Alene Indians, warning the saloon men not to sell his people liquor. He says of any of them who shall drink in town he would like to have the city marshals arrest them and send word to him, and he will go and get them and put them in his jail. He also talks to the county clerk about cases, and says his people lose many horses. He closes by saying: "I want to live at peace with all the whites, and would like to have the whites use my people as they use one another." It is but a few years ago Sallee rode at the head of the Cour d'Alene warriors and was a savage chief bent on destroying the whites. Now he rides around the country taking a family interest in his tribe and keeping them straight. He is thrifty and worth his land and has a town house in comfort. The average Indian had a good pair of [illegible].

Stock Market.

NEW YORK, September 5.—Money on call easy 3½, prime paper 5 to 7. The stock market was again very active and decidedly strong to day, the weakness strongly having disappeared from it. The continued animation was largely the result of buying orders from outside sources through the most influential of these was the buying of western stocks by a Chicago party, which made grangers to day the leading stocks, with the exception of coalers. The list is almost invariably higher to night.

A Boat [illegible] in Bolivia.

BOSTON, September 5.—G. H. Fall, a Boston lawyer, has just returned from a trip to Bolivia and brings information concerning the work that has been accomplished there by W. H. Christy, a Boston man. About four years ago Christy came into possession of the Lucribas mine, which has since proved to be one of the richest in the world. The diggings comprise 25 per cent copper and 75 per cent silver, the latter averaging from 200 to 500 ounces per ton. Christy has also come into possession of eight lead mines and the only coal mine in Bolivia. The coal that had been heretofore used in Bolivia had been brought from Chili and elsewhere, and sold to merchants in Bolivia for $200 per ton. Christy's coal mine, which appears to have no limit as to quantity, will bring much needed relief to the merchants, who now expect to get their coal for $30 per ton, which will allow Christy a handsome profit. Already there are eight hundred miners at work in the coal and lead mines. The Bolivian government, in consideration of what Christy has done, and what he proposes to do, has given him the exclusive privilege of smelting in the republic for fifteen years, and any mine owner with ore to do has to have it done by Christy.

THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1895.

C. L. Pay left for the east on the Rock Island train last evening.

Miss Fannie Aiken left for Chicago last evening over the Rock Island road.

Judge Campbell will open the regular term of court at Buena Vista on Monday morning.

Paul Kaler and Lena M. Hardwick, both of this city, were married last evening at seven o'clock by Justice Shideler.

Miss Emma Lane, daughter of Dr. A. L. Jackson leaves for Whitehall, Hillsdale county, Michigan to day for a short visit.

A special meeting of the Woman's Educational society will be held in the college chapel Friday, September 6th at 3:30 p. m. Business of importance is to come before the society.

The hearing in the Brookside Dairy company's suit for an injunction against the Brookside Water company and others was again postponed yesterday until Saturday, September 14th.

Frost was reported from the surrounding country yesterday morning. Wednesday night was the coldest since last spring. The thermometer at 3 a. m. was thirty nine degrees above zero.

The greater than usual length of the list of real estate transfers which we print this morning would seem to indicate an awakening to the market. A dealer reports an increasing demand for inside property.

Justice Shideler, who is carrying the bench in the police court during the absence of Magistrate Battey on account of illness, fined a man yesterday for allowing his horse to stand on the street without being hitched.

The motion to set aside and revoke the injunction heretofore granted in the case of Dunlap vs. Gwillim was heard by Judge Campbell in chambers yesterday, but the motion was overruled. The petition for a receiver in the same case will be heard at a future time.

An exhibition of the Steam Vacuum pump will be given at Captain DeCourcey's well on Saturday, September 7th, at 3 o'clock p. m. The well is on the Ericson ranch, one half mile north west of the house, on Sand creek. All interested are invited to witness the exhibition.

Mr. Emery P. Moon, of Busted, has furnished us the following record of the weather for the week ending Sept. 4, 1895: Highest temperature, 95°, on the 3d; lowest temperature 42°, on the 4th; weekly mean temperature, 67.42°. Direction of wind, three days south, one day west, two days variable.

Mrs. Albert M. Peters, daughter of Mr. A. Cupchant, formerly of this city, died in Denver yesterday. The remains will be brought to this city for interment to day. The funeral will be held on the arrival of the Santa Fe train at 11 o'clock. Services at Evergreen cemetery, to which all friends are invited.

Tonight is the night of the lawn social at the residence of Mr. F. L. Martin. The Young People's society of the Congregational church have it in charge. Some time ago this society pledged $500 toward the building fund of the new church edifice and the receipts of the evening go toward this end. All are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. William Harburg, of Philadelphia, is visiting his cousin, Henry Harburg, of West Colorado Springs. Mr. Harburg is one of a number of heirs who are interested in the settlement of an estate in England which is estimated to be worth eight million dollars. Owing to a contest over the will the probability is that the final settlement will not be reached for some time.

Miss Ida Clothier, the well known temperance speaker, will give an address at the Methodist Episcopal church on next Sunday evening. The Boston Traveller says of her: Miss Clothier with her logical arrangement of thought, clear, full voice and distinct articulation and an earnest belief in the triumph of the cause she advocates is doing most effective platform work.

On the 27th of September there will be a meeting, held at Table Rock by the board of trade of the Divide district. Several addresses will be delivered of interest to ranchmen and the meeting should be widely attended. It would be very well for some of our merchants and real estate men to be present as we are all interested in the prosperity of the richest agricultural district in the county.

The contract has been let for the erection of a brick building on Huerfano street on the southwest corner of the alley between Cascade avenue and Tejon street. The building will be erected by Mr. Frank Marvin and will be one stories high and seventy feet deep. The lower floor has already been engaged by Artz Brothers, who will do a meat market business. The upper floor will be fitted up for offices.

A larger audience was present at the Opera house last night to witness the Zemgic performance than on Wednesday night. Many new tricks were shown and the methods of performing a number were explained. During his appearance here Harry Zanth has proved himself to be an artist in his line and his performance is entertaining throughout and well worth seeing. The programme of the entertainment would, however, be improved by the omission of the hot play by the so-called Irish comedians. They detract from an entertainment which is complete without them.

[illegible] offered by Prof. and Seymour a number of the leading musicians of the city will on Monday evening give a concert for his benefit. The talent which will be known local musicians as Miss Ehrlicher, Miss Kieffer and Mr. Duncan Bell will appear on the programme. Miss Effie Elaine Hext, a graduate of the National School of Oratory and Elocution at Philadelphia, will also take part. The price of admission will be one dollar. Tickets are on sale at the Consolidated stationery store and at Aiken's and Hext & Williams' music stores.
